

CHICAGO SMALL BUSINESS RESILIENCY FUND

WHAT IS THE RESILIENCY FUND?

Mayor Lightfoot has announced a new $100M economic relief package to support Chicago's small businesses that are experiencing a temporary loss of revenue as a result of the COVID-19 outbreak. The Chicago Small Business Resiliency Loan Fund is a partnership with the City, the Chicago Community Catalyst Fund, and other private sponsors.

The new fund will provide no- or low-interest loans to severely impacted small businesses over the coming months, targeting historically under-resourced communities with an emphasis on minimizing hardship for those businesses and their employees. The package is designed to provide much-needed cash flow relief for neighborhood entrepreneurs.

More than half of Americans work at or own a small business. According to a recent study, the average Chicago small business has only 28 days of cash on hand, and in many of Chicago's South and West Side neighborhoods, liquidity is even tighter. The creation of an emergency loan fund will provide critical support for businesses, their employees, and the families that depend on the vitality of the local neighborhood economy.
